

Things that are great about working downtown:
diverse business community;
accessibility; excitement;
and of course, food trucks.

Things that are not great
about working downtown:
harassment by total strangers.

Don't be that guy. Nobody likes that guy.

I know you may think you just paid me a compliment,
but unwanted commentary on my appearance by strangers on the street makes me feel self-conscious and objectified.

So if you really want to make me feel good, don't treat me
like a piece of meat.

It's not a compliment. It's harassment.

Ahh, Summer: the perfect time to get outside and get active. Too bad you had to go and ruin it.

Someone simply walking/jogging/biking
in your line of sight
isn't an invitation for you to comment on how they look.

It's not a compliment. It's harassment.

Have you ever had one of those wonderful days,
when everything seems to be going right and there's a little skip in your step for no particular reason?

Well, I was having one of those days
until you felt the need to comment
on my appearance.

It's not a compliment. It's harassment.
Next time, keep it to yourself.

When you walk down the street, do random strangers comment on how you look?

No?

Wow. That must be nice.

It's not a compliment.
It's harassment.
Next time, keep it to yourself.

Your Mom

...would be really disappointed to learn that she had raised a street harasser.

Be a better man. Don't comment on random people on the street.

So, you like how I look?

Do you know what I like?

Walking down the street without getting my appearance commented on by total strangers.

It's not a compliment. It's harassment.

I'm sorry, there must have been some confusion.

See, I thought I was minding my own business,
but apparently you thought I was asking you to comment on how I looked just by walking by.

It's not a compliment. It's harassment.
Next time, keep it to yourself.

The reputation is "Minnesota Nice,"
not "Minnesota Random Men Commenting on How I Look
and Making Me Feel Weird."

Don't be that guy.

It's not a compliment. It's harassment.
